Business Operations Guide (DBOG)

As stewards of New Mexico Aging and Long-Term Services Department (NMAALTS), resources, staff are responsible for conducting their work in the highest ethical fashion. ALTS expects each person to exercise sound judgment in serving the community. ALTS acknowledges the challenges inherent in the environment of a large, complex organization. This business operations guide provides a framework for appropriate stewardship of ALTS resources regarding the use of its consumer services databases. Adhering to the standards and practices in this business operations guide is important to achieving our tradition of excellence in serving older New Mexicans.

The Administration for Community Living (ACL), ALTS's federal oversight agency, administers programs authorized through a variety of statutes. The ALTS and its AAAs strive to maintain compliance to these statutes.

About Community Living

All people, regardless of age or disability, should be able to live independently and participate fully in their communities. Every person should have the right to make choices and to control the decisions in and about their lives. This right to self-determination includes decisions about their homes and work, as well as all the other daily choices most adults make without a second thought.

Older Americans Act

Congress originally passed the Older Americans Act (OAA) in 1965 in response to concern by policymakers about a lack of community social services for older persons. The OAA has been reauthorized and amended numerous times, since it was first enacted in 1965. In the 116th Congress, both the House and the Senate passed legislation that would reauthorize the OAA for a five-year period. On March 25, 2020, the President signed the Supporting Older Americans Act of 2020 (P.L. 116-131) which authorizes appropriations for OAA programs through FY2024.

ACL published a final rule in February 2024, to revise the guidelines for carrying out Older Americans Act initiatives. With the ultimate goal of ensuring that the nation's expanding population of older adults can continue to receive the services and supports they need to live—and thrive—in their own homes and communities, the update seeks to better support the national aging network that provides OAA services and improve program implementation. The 2024 Older Americans Act final rule, which is the first significant change to the majority of OAA program regulations since 1988, corrects many requirements, brings regulations into compliance with the current statute, and addresses concerns that have come to light since the last update.

WellSky—A&D Training for ALTSD, Agencies, and Providers

1. A&D Training Modules

Below is a link to each of the A&D application training modules in the WellSky portal. The time listed by each video does not consider how long it will take each user to perform the hands-on exercises.

The Training Modules are located in the WellSky portal. You can find them under the WellSky Quick Links.

The list of WellSky Training Videos can be found in the WellSky Portal and are subject to change. Your WellSky administrator will determine which training videos are most appropriate for your position.

The screenshot displays the WellSky portal interface for the organization 'NM State of New Mexico'. It features a sidebar with three sections: 'Application Links', 'Customer Quick Links', and 'WellSky Quick Links'. The 'WellSky Quick Links' section includes a link for 'WellSky Training'. The main content area shows a tree view of 'Applications', with 'Aging and Disability' expanded to list various training modules such as 'Activities and Referrals (10:01)', 'Assessments (14:36)', and 'WellSky Training (10:47)'. Two red arrows point from the 'WellSky Training' link in the sidebar to the 'WellSky Training' item in the main list.
